

Technician

(Geneva, Switzerland, 100%)

Do you want to solve global environmental problems that have a major impact on public health and climate? At Plair, we are developing and manufacturing instruments that allow allergy professionals, and meteorological and environmental services improved forecasting and risk management related to allergies and asthma. To complement our production team, we are seeking a technician that will be responsible for the production and deployment of Plair products.

Responsibilities

- Mechanical, electrical and optical assembly of Plair products
- Installation and maintenance of Plair products
- Management of stock of spare parts
- Management of existing and design of new CAD parts and assemblies

Your profile

- 2+ years of experience in assembling mechanical, optical and / or electronic small parts
- Accurate, conscientious and high attention to detail
- Efficient and capable to working under pressure
- Ability to travel (max. 20%)
- Fluent in French with good command of English (spoken and written)
- Driving license obligatory
- Valid Swiss work permit

Benefits

- You will work with state-of-art laser-sensing technology
- You will oversee production of revolutionary products that enable better alert millions of people suffering from respiratory problems, such as hay fever and asthma
- You will take active part in the installation of Plair instruments around the Globe
- You will work in a dynamic startup environment
- You will join a rapidly growing team of highly motivated and experienced physicists and engineers since the beginning

Apply

Interested? Please send your CV, motivation letter, your certificates and diplomas at careers@plair.ch